

10TH ANNUAL PRIVACY PAPERS FOR POLICYMAKERS

Thursday, February 6, 2020 • Senate Hart Office Building, SH-902

AGENDA

#PPPM

5:30 p.m. – 6:00 p.m. Opening Remarks

Welcome Remarks

Fernando Laguarda, FPF Education & Innovation Foundation Board Member and Faculty Director, Program on Law and Government, American University, Washington College of Law

Opening Remarks

The Honorable Christine S. Wilson, Commissioner, Federal Trade Commission

6:00 p.m. – 7:15 p.m. Policy Discussions with Authors of the 2019 Winning Academic Papers

Antidiscriminatory Privacy

presented by author

Ignacio N. Cofone, McGill University Faculty of Law

with discussant

Lisa Goldman, Counsel, U.S. House of Representatives, Committee on Energy and Commerce

Privacy's Constitutional Moment and the Limits of Data Protection

presented by author

Neil M. Richards, Washington University School of Law and The Cordell Institute for Policy in Medicine & Law

with discussant

Jared Bomberg, Senior Counsel, Office of U.S. Senator Maria Cantwell

Algorithmic Impact Assessments under the GDPR: Producing Multi-layered Explanations presented by co-authors

Margot E. Kaminski, University of Colorado Law

Gianclaudio Malgieri, Faculty of Law Vrije Universiteit Brussel (VUB)

with discussant

Nasreen Djouini, Policy Advisor, U.S. Department of Commerce, International Trade Administration

Dark Patterns at Scale: Findings from a Crawl of 11K Shopping Websites

presented by author

Arunesh Mathur, Princeton University

with discussant

Morgan Kennedy, Attorney Advisor, Federal Trade Commission, Office of Chairman Joseph Simons

The Many Revolutions of Carpenter

presented by author

Paul Ohm, Georgetown University Law Center

with discussant

Michelle Richardson, Director, Privacy & Data Project, Center for Democracy & Technology

7:15 p.m. Closing Remarks

Jules Polonetsky, CEO, Future of Privacy Forum

7:30 p.m. – 8:30 p.m. Wine Reception ~ Room SH-902

Privacy Papers for Policymakers is supported in part by the National Science Foundation under Grant No. 1837413.