

GDPR OMNIBUS: EU REGULATORY MORASS?

Discussion Leads: Gabriela Zanfira-Fortuna + Bianca-Ioana Marcu

SESSION DESCRIPTION

Last year at the Annual Meeting, we ran a session exploring a daring hypothetical: what specific changes would our attendees want to see to the GDPR in the age of AI? Little did we know that reopening the GDPR would become a reality merely months later. This session is an opportunity to discuss the state of play of the GDPR Omnibus within the broader EU push for regulatory simplification. We will also touch on the latest developments in regulatory guidance and enforcement, particularly at the intersection of the GDPR and the rest of the data strategy package, from DMA, to DSA, to the AI Act.

KEY DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. Does the newly proposed personal data definition streamline compliance efforts and provide greater legal certainty?
2. What are the main “pain points” that are still left unaddressed by the Digital Omnibus, and how would you address them?
3. How can existing areas of interplay or tension between the GDPR and AI Act be resolved by the Digital Omnibus?
4. What might be the broader implications of the Digital Omnibus on international data transfers?
